Transforming Melbourne's rail network

The Metro Tunnel will change the way people travel around our city, with more connections and more choice.

Construction is complete on the tunnels and three of the five new underground train stations – Arden (in North Melbourne), Parkville and Anzac (on St Kilda Road).

Work is continuing on the two CBD stations – Town Hall and State Library.

There is still a huge amount of work to take place to make sure all the Metro Tunnel's stations, technology and systems are ready to open to passengers in 2025.

Hey Sunbury Line

Your trains will run through the Metro Tunnel and five new stations in 2025.

Thursday 2 to Saturday 11 January

We're building the Metro Tunnel

As part of Victoria's Big Build, we're building the Metro Tunnel which is the biggest upgrade of Melbourne's train network since the City Loop opened in 1981.

The Metro Tunnel will create a turn-up-and-go service for passengers on the Cranbourne, Pakenham and Sunbury lines.

As we test the tunnel's new systems and conduct trial operations in the leadup to opening in 2025, buses will replace trains at various times on sections of the Sunbury Line.

Metro Trains will also be completing maintenance works on the Sunbury Line.
